HEBER CITY — Heber City's pre-application for funds to renovate the historic Wasatch Stake Tabernacle on Main Street has been approved.

Mayor Gordon Mendenhall made the announcement last week that the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration had granted approval. In a letter received from the FHA, Heber City was told a grant for $311,320 will be considered, in the formal application.

Mendenhall said the administration will not supply the funds until after the project is finished. He said he has already arranged for interim financing through Zion's First National Bank. The final application will be filed when the project is completed and the administration will pay off the construction loan with the 40-year loan. The city already has $167,000 of the $500,000 needed for the project.

The tabernacle was built in 1887 and is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. George Olson, of Olson and Harris Architects, has submitted plans to remodel the building with maintains the character of the building and have been approved by the State Historical Society.

A second floor will be added to the building which will house city offices, a museum and a meeting hall. The city council noted the renovation will be completed prior to Heber City's centennial celebration in 1988.

Mark Smith came on in relief and allowed just two hits, Brian Santiago's single to open the fourth and Rick Horrocks' single in the sixth.

Santiago scored in the fourth, moving around the bases on three wild pitches.

Orem picked up an insurance run in the fifth when Robarge singled, took second on an error and came around on two wild pitches.

The Bulldogs picked up four runs in the bottom of the sixth. After Matt Clark grounded out, Santiago was safe on an error. Dean Clark and Greg Wooton both walked to load the bases.

Horrocks singled to drive in two runs and Wooton scored on a wild pitch. The final run of the inning scored when pitch hitter Dan Knight was safe on an error.

Orem scored eight runs in its half of the seventh, but the Tigers were still batting when the umpire determined it was too dark to play and called the game.

Orem coach Terry Harward said he felt the Tiger pitchers threw well, but expressed displeasure with the team's overall play.

"We didn't play with intensity except in the second and the last inning," Harward said. "We hit the ball well in spurts, but we just weren't intense. We need much more intensity to be successful in the league we're in."

Cram and Robarge each had two of Orem's nine hits.

American Fork 18, Springville 4
American Fork used 12 hits, 13 walks and seven Springville errors to score its 18 runs. The game was called after five innings on the 10-run rule.

Chris Hermanson and Matt Lamb led the Cavemen with four RBI apiece. Cooper Wimmer, Jose Valdez, Jared Anderson and John Gunter had two RBI each.

Lamb was 3-for-3 to collect one-quarter of American Fork's hits. Valdez, Anderson and Gunter had two hits apiece.

He said the BYU women athletes, with their tradition of following the spirit of sport serve, as an example to the rest of the country.

Then he said that sports originally came to prominence as a substitute for war. What you young athletes must ask is this:

"What is it we're playing for? What are we defending? What does honor and victory mean in a structured, organized sports program?"

It was a night to remember. It was a night the young athletes will tell their granddaughters about.

And the beautiful part is: their granddaughters won't think there was anything unusual about it.

One priority in LaVell Edwards spring practice was to throw the ball long downfield to the wideouts, the coach explained to reporters before kickoff Saturday.

This should especially be good news for senior Rich Zayas who caught eight passes last year.

Saturday Zayas caught three passes for 42 yards, including a 29 yarder.

"If we can find a way to make up for the two passes Jimmy caught last year, we'll be OK," said Edwards.

It didn't take Cougar volleyball star Sari Virtanen to get into the spirit of things at BYU.

Virtanen came to BYU from Finland just two years ago and made an immediate impact on the volleyball team — winning High Country Athletic Conference offensive player of the year honors in both of her seasons as a Cougar. Her willingness to work and friendly personality made just as big an impact on her coaches and teammates.

Tuesday, Virtanen received the Leona Holbrook Spirit of Sport award at the annual Women's Athletic Awards banquet.

The award is given to the senior woman athlete who "best exemplifies the true spirit of sport and whose play and participation in life are expressions of human character values which represent the true spirit of sport."
